The Originator

“And they asked me
how I did it,

And I gave 'em the
Scripture text:

‘You keep your light
so shining—

A little ahead of the next.’

They copied all they could follow,

But they couldn't
follow my mind;

So I left 'em swearing and stealing—

A year and a half behind.”

MARGARET MORNING

Foreword

I*F in future years this Lanthorn sheds a solitary gleam on your memory and finding response, causes you either a heart-throb or a sunny smile, or both— then, like a night watchman, his weary vigil ended, we can feel amply repaid for our labor.*

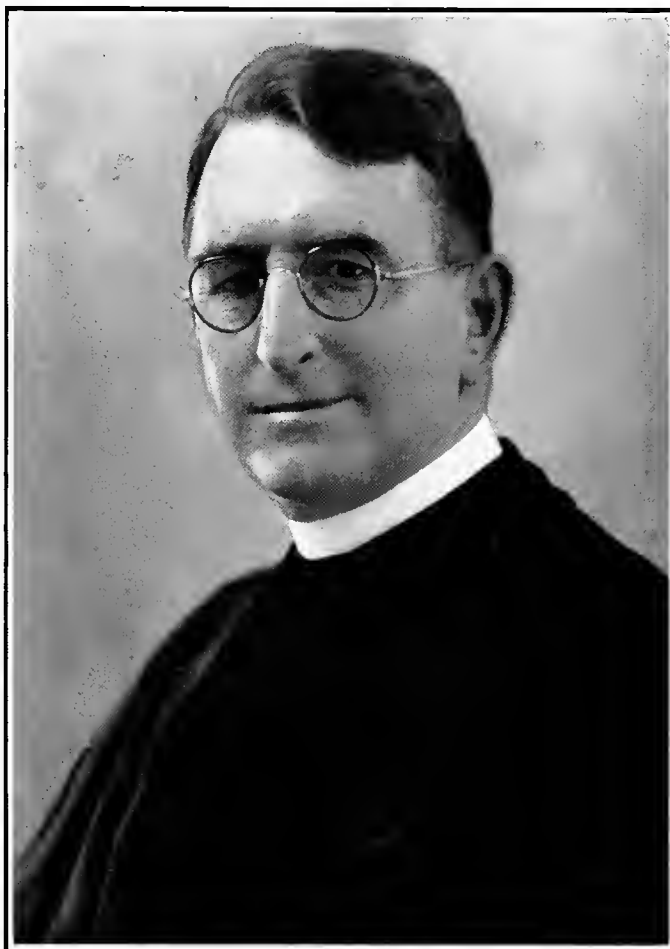

PAUL HENKE

Dedication

WHO dreamed a dream one evening 'most thirty years ago, who saw the need of a Lanthorn in those dark hours before the dawn when Susquehanna still was sleeping, who put the will behind his dream and with his classmates made that dream come true, who preserved the golden memories we love to court when twilight gathers; to him and to his loyal classmates this volume is affectionately dedicated.

Memory

*He, who, in the spirit of Adventure
Has sought some powerful key to tether Time,
Has found a dauntless knave, who with an Unseen hand, doth force the Future and the Present far into the dark caves of the Past.
But still, there lingers on the constant breeze,
Soothing the sting of Time, and gilding
Life's darkest clouds with summer sunshine,
A subtle quality, called Memory.*

Junior History

SITUATED just outside of the beautiful little town of Selinsgrove, on the west bank of the Susquehanna River is our Alma Mater, which we love so dearly. It is amid the wooded hills of this great valley so rich in Indian legends, that we, the class of '26, are preparing to battle with life.

Now as we assume the more responsible duties of upper-classmen, we must feign look back for a moment with fond recollections to those scenes so dear to us as Freshmen.

It was on September 22, 1922, that the largest class Susquehanna had known until that time made its appearance upon the campus. A verdant bunch we were, whose hungry minds groped out in the frantic effort to grasp that knowledge and light which would satisfy our longing for an insight into the deeper things of life. Not unlike Diogenes, we, too, carried our flickering lanterns, which were to assist us in satisfying the longing of a soul for truth. But unlike that eminent philosopher, there was nothing of the cynic about us. Indeed the light of our dim lanterns threatened to go out when we so suddenly found ourselves amid a scene so dazzling with novelty and splendor that we were prone to think that it was the land of Alfheim in which we found ourselves. The old students, like the elves of this land of light, were certainly kindly disposed towards us.

The satisfaction of our thirst for knowledge was immediately undertaken by the Sophs, whose words of wisdom appeared in various prominent places. At this time, when our lanterns seemed about to be extinguished, we thought of Perry when he said, "Don't give up the ship". Replenishing our lanterns with a little more oil in the form of courage and daring, we secretly met to organize our class.

Then came the Freshman get-away, which furnished so much anxiety and excitement. One quiet evening, after the last rays of the setting sun had disappeared behind the horizon, a group of adventure-loving Freshmen stealthily made their way to an appointed rendez-vous where several trucks were waiting to convey them to the political center of Snyder County. It was with bated breath that we received the news of the close pursuit of the enemy. But the glory was ours, since we had already partaken of a delicious banquet which was the culmination of our escapade.

Thus ended our Freshmen year with the realization that unlike Prometheus we could not forknow all things.

It was in the fall of 1923 that we returned with eagerness to take up our college lives as Sophomores. With faithful persistence we undertook the culture of the verdant Freshmen, and as a climax to our success won the tie-up on Warner's Field. What joys and achievements were ours, for our class certainly could be proud of her athletes. It was then that we won the trophies which grew in number so rapidly that opposing teams became discouraged. In basketball, football, and in soccer our fellows starred. But what about our co-eds? Were they to be left out of this athletic realm? Not they! Hockey, basketball, and baseball victories were theirs.

The calendar which we published was indeed a credit to our class of Sophomores. Not only was our class represented in athletics, but the mathematical and history prizes were captured by two of our fair co-eds.

Now as Juniors we again resume our work, for as we delve deeper into the heart of things, we find the light of our lanterns steadily increasing, so that we realize that work wins everything. With stronger endeavor we push steadily on toward our goal, but unlike Alladin's, our lantern is not a magic one. In this present Lanthorn we try to present a book which may be considered a representative climax to our effort, for at last we know that it is hope, grown wise, and love, and patience which at last shall overcome. As we look toward our future as Seniors when we shall assume more responsibilities, we find comfort in our motto, "Give to the world the best you have, and the best will come back to you."

"ELEANOR"

FROM Johnstown Eleanor came quietly and unobtrusively into our class, and in a like manner into our lives. Kind and generous, she has made a deep impression on all of us. Whenever a responsible position is to be filled, we know that Eleanor is the person to fill it, because everything she undertakes to do, she does with the utmost accuracy and efficiency.

She is an ambitious, conscientious student; she knows something on every subject, and after talking to her for a while, you will be fully convinced that Eleanor has some ideas of her own that are really worth while.

Yes, she also knows how to have a good time, and, although at first sight you might think she spends all her time studying, before long you find out that she is always ready for a good time, plays jokes on everyone, and entertains splendidly at "feeds."

Tho' she has gone,
Thoughts linger on
For "Bloomie," old Pal of ours.

COMING to us from Goucher, she was with us but a year and one month, when one day a large ship came sailing by, and taking her as a passenger, carried her out into the Sea of Matrimony.

"Bloomie" was a friend to everyone, and one rarely saw her without a smile. She was deeply interested in her musical work, and was, and still is, quite an accomplished pianist. Whenever she was asked to do anything, she was always ready and willing to do it. All she did was done in the best possible way.

And now, even though the "Best Man" has taken her from our midst, we can't forget her. But we, the Class of '26, wish her all the happiness that this old world of ours can give.

"PETE"

BEHOLD an athlete of no mean ability, ranking with the best that Susquehanna has ever produced. Football seasons since '22 have been greatly aided by the skill of "Pete" as a punt- and drop-kicker. Basketball and baseball have also recieved added strength as a result of his proficiency.

He is a "local lad," having graduated from Selinsgrove High School in '22, and entered the Class of '26 as a Freshman.

"Pete" has not neglected the social side of life, as he is regarded as a good sport by approximately all the Snyder county poultry. But we are reasonably sure that as yet his heart is beating close to "normal."

Taking him all in all "Pete" is a friend indeed—one who has a cheery greeting for all whom he meets. Being a cosmopolitan with an exceptional personality we are sure he will be able to plunge through the line for a good ten yards whenever he is called upon. Here's luck to one of our best classmates.

LEE is characteristic of his race from the fact that he never proclaims his deeds from the housetops nor does his work for praise from others. He can trace his ancestry back to the Palatinate from whence they emigrated to America about the time of the revocation of the edict of Nantes in 1685. He speaks quite fluently the language of his fathers, viz, Pennsylvania German, although through greater patience on his part one could not tell that he is "Dutch" by ordinary acquaintance.

On account of always attending strictly to his classes and spending the remainder of his time in the laboratory, he does not have the time to become acquainted with the majority of the student body. Those with whom he is acquainted know him as very amiable and friendly, always ready to do anyone a good turn.

Lee intends to make teaching his life work. To this end we wish him all the success in the world, and hope that he will become one of Susquehanna's great men.

WE have all found "Cubby" to be a sincere, helpful, mirthful friend. Old and young, male and female, are all the same to him. If he shows any partiality, it is to the equitable sex, for which he cannot be reprehended.

He has displayed much zeal for his class, in athletics, in school work, and in Glee Club. Had he not been deteriorated by an internal injury in his Freshman year, he would be wearing a Varsity "S" for more than one sport. Not being able to represent the school in athletics, "Cubby" has been a disciple of the Glee Club for three years. Yes, indeed, he was the cause of many girls coming to Susquehanna. They all picked out the tall, blonde tenor, as he stood before the footlights of the different stages, and in that instance decided where to continue their education.

Although "Cubby" is suitable for a physician he would look better in Grand Opera. However we wish him luck in the course that he may follow.

Mabel comes to us from the thrifty town of Northumberland with the fixed determination of attaining a goal that is worthy of mention, and by the record she has made in the past we feel sure that she will not be disappointed.

Not all of her interests, however, are centered at Susquehanna or Northumberland, for not so very far away, among the mountains of Western Pennsylvania, at State College, is the center of interest. She is particularly fond of playing "hearts", and has succeeded in capturing quite a few.

Nevertheless, Mabel is a good student and a loyal friend. As student, social, and religious worker, the best wishes of the Class of '26 go with you, and may you have unbounded success in all your undertakings.

Here we find "Larry" fitting in with his surroundings, by endorsing sport and work.

After the first year, finding that attention to the fair Co-eds takes too much of his time, he fortifies himself against further hindrance of allying himself with the sweet woman back home.

During these changing scenes of social and student activity, "Larry" has been showing real talent in athletics, especially on the gridiron. For the first two season's Lady Luck seems to be against our hero, but this is just a test of patience and reward follows. In his Junior year the latent possibilities burst forth and "Larry" emerges one of our best warriors.

These are but the first three scenes of "Larry's" college career and we feel sure that when the curtain falls on the last act he will have played his part well and shall leave behind him a name to be praised and honored.

"Peg" is not an athlete but rather belongs to the rooter corps where she does her bit for the class and the college. She is a true and steadfast friend and is always willing to help when a "fellow's down and out." Many number "Peg" as a loyal pal and these know that she will succeed in her chosen line of work and elsewhere.

"Be it laugh or glance or merry smile,
They're all expressed when "Peggy" sings;
For she scatters afar each worry and trial,
And peace and good humor instead she brings."

LOOK it over, kind readers, and tell me your opinion in the last analysis. No, he is not a musician, not much; nor an actor, not much; nor even yet a poet—not much. True he has Charlie Chaplin whitewashed as a comedian, and Burr ousted as a tenor, but his one great redeeming feature is the fact that he smokes a good brand of tobacco. Candidly, "Jake" is a very likeable fellow. By his optimistic actions we have judged him and found him a real man's man—and more. We have found that his fun-loving mask hides a deep stream of thought and emotion, that will be of invaluable service to him in his chosen profession—the ministry. Yes, "Jake" is likeable—very.

Hailing from the rich and prosperous anthracite regions of Pennsylvania, he came to Susquehanna with high ideals and the primary intention of acquiring what is commonly known as an education.

Realizing that all education is not found in books, "Bill" is a man of many organizations, chief of which is the "Bloody Daggers". His talents are varied and many. He is in great demand as a musician, as he plays banjo, violin, and piano.

She has even become interested in singing, her favorite song at this time being, "Morning will come."

Martha is sweet tempered and not easily ruffled but when she slights the King's English and begins talking Swedish—well, just don't go too far, that's all.

THERE once came to the campus of Susquehanna a young man who stood head and shoulders above the rest, Lutz by name. He was at once christened the poet or Longfellow of '26. As our first President Lester was much liked on account of his ability to manage class affairs.

Lutz, although his athletic activities are limited to his class, is a student especially of English, and has a great liking for poetry.

At first we did not know whether Lester would be a poet or minister, but now we believe he will enter the Gospel ministry, and are positive that he will be successful.

Lutz has a friendly word for everyone on the campus, and will be greatly missed when he leaves us to enter his life's work. We, the Class of '26, wish him God's richest blessing in his mission of furthering God's kingdom.

YEARS ago, among the numerous foothills of Eastern Pennsylvania, a youth was reared, who was destined to bring fame to the halls of Susquehanna.

To some of his most intimate friends he is known as "P-10", but to the most of us he is known as plain "Bill."

Although "Bill" doesn't represent Susquehanna in athletics, he is an ardent supporter and is quite proficient in tennis and basketball. Very little is known of his love affairs but it is rumored in and about the campus that a pretty little girl in New York state holds the key to his heart.

"Like father, like son", so "Bill" finally decided to become a doctor and we find him working diligently toward his desired goal. In this, his chosen field, we predict for him the greatest success, and are quite confident that he will be an honor to himself and to his Alma Mater.

HAROLD SWANK	President

GERTRUDE WALKER	Historian

BY reason of its frequency in the Public Press, Biography has been brought constantly to the eye of the public and has long been accepted as an interesting and accurate history of the lives of men. Autobiography, however, carries with it less interest, at least to the average mind, either because truth is confused with conceit or because the writer has assumed undue modesty in his work and thus impaired its accuracy. May this, the history of the class of '27, then be read as a Biography in spite of the fact that it is written by a class member.

When in the fall of 1923, President Aikens officially opened the school for the year, it was, we might say, as the opening of an interesting basketball tournament. The four classes representing four teams to take part. The common purpose of each team being to win in all things by fair play, and if to lose, to be found at least aiding in Susquehanna's program. The dark horse of the whole tournament was naturally the class of '27, better known as the "Frosh." Needless to say they were not the favorites and the betting was heavy against them. In spite of the greenness of this new team the members soon adapted themselves to this environment and it was not long until the upper classes were well aware of the fact that they were contesting yet working with "foemen worthy of their steel". To establish proof of their worthiness, the "Frosh" collected the following evidence:

They lost the two annual events of the tie-up and the football game only after hard struggles and due largely to the increased experience of the Sophs. Their social events of the entire year were well managed and quite successful in all respects. One of the big things done by the class in its first year was the winning of the interclass indoor track championship. The first quarter of the game, as far as the class of '27 was concerned ended last June, and this fall the class advanced with honor to the position previously held by the class of '26.

Now with the game nearly half over, one finds the members of the team of '27 still holding to that high spirit which carried them so far in that initial quarter.

As the class is likened to a team so we might liken every member of it to a versatile player. Every member of the class has made of himself a forward—in that each one is conscientiously devoting himself to carrying forward the policies of S. U.

Each member is a center in that each one has made himself a nucleus of worthy actions. Each member is a guard in that he is forever safeguarding the honor of old S. U.

With a team of such stars cooperating as they have in the first half of the game, the next two years appear inevitably to be profitable ones for '27 and Susquehanna.

Freshman Class History

"This is the word that year by year
While in her place the School is set
Everyone of her sons must hear,
And none that hears it dare forget.
This they all with a joyful mind
Bear through life like a torch in flame,
And falling, fling to the host behind—
Play up! Play up! and play the game."

AND so, on September 17, 1924, we find on the venerable Susquehanna campus a group of more than six score of individuals who have gathered together, having accepted the challenge to "Play up! and play the game!"

After a day or two trying to become accustomed to the daily routine, arranging of courses, choosing of roommates and uttering a few casual "hellos," the boys were greeted with the somewhat "cheerful" news of an exclusive downtown party held by the Sophomores in honor of the new undergraduates. Then began the famous parade over the campus, intermixed with certain "pleasant" incidents which became more marked as the hour grew late. This experience welded the boys together, and taught them also how to compete with one another in a boat race. A few nights later the town and the university were clothed in a tapestry of many colors, namely, red paint and printed rules. The rules were the cause of many a painful episode which was soon forgotten.

Then the day dawned on the first great epoch which welded the group into the Class of 1928. The Sophs and Frosh were gathered on the University Field for the grand tourney of the year, the Annual Freshman-Sophomore Tie-Up. In ten minutes the fray was over with nine brave Sophs in the throes of the bonds of their hereditary enemies, the Frosh.

Next followed a secret organization of the class, election of officers and plans for a "weiner and marshmallow roast." In a few days everything was planned for the getaway which was entirely successful. A wonderful "roast" was held, being enjoyed by all. At a late hour the long trudge home began. It ended all too soon.

Then in football approximately one-third of the boys were out, twelve making the varsity squad. In basketball also our boys were out, five making the varsity squad. In connection with athletics, the Freshmen won the inter-class soccer trophy.

A word for the future of the Class of 1928; a class which is destined to go into life leaving a mark but not a stain.

"Thus at the flaming forge of life
Our fortunes must be wrought;
Thus on its sounding anvil shaped
Each burning deed and thought."

Here is the home of a man who works
 From 'morn 'till eve', who never shirks
 The hardest tasks that he must greet—
 Just the kind of a man one likes to meet.
 For he's full of youth as a bare-foot boy,
 And defying sorrow he scatters joy
 From his open door to the farthest hill—
 He's the kind of a man who says, "I will":
 Then, he's always ready to ease one's load
 Of troubles, or show one the shortest road
 That will help you o'er Life's varied span;
 Old—yet young is this gray-haired man;
 When school-paths ebb to Life's complex street,
 We hope he's the brand of man we'll meet.

Our Cheer Leaders

When the game is won and the teams have gone
 From the campus you love so well;
 When hearts beat young, and the bonfire's on—
 When the victory refuses to pale;
 You think perhaps of your team of brawn,
 Or drink deep of college fame,
 Yet, there on the edge of the dim firelight
 Are men unpraised, who won the night;
 Men who refused to give up the fight—
 The cheer leaders won the game.

HOOBAMA

A Resume of the 1924 Football Season

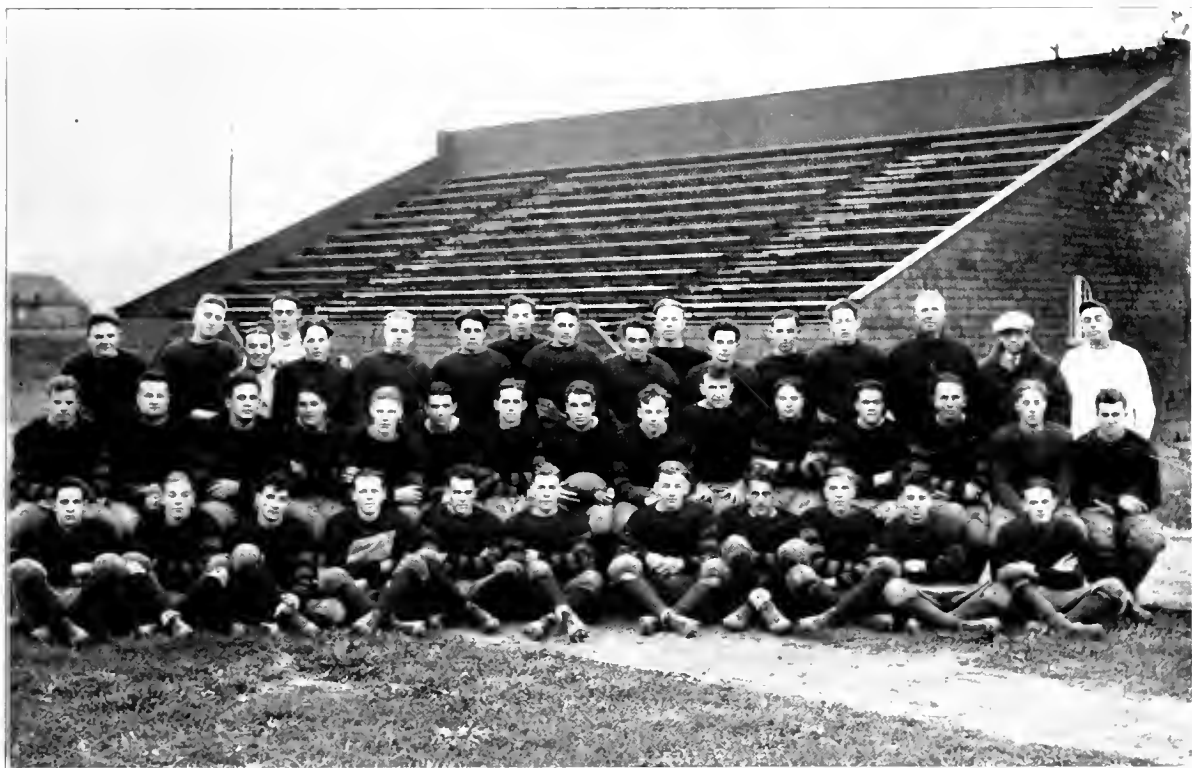

COACH WINGARD

The 1924 football season at Susquehanna was a mediocre one. Our "Crusaders" at times rose to great heights and again fell to depths that disappointed their followers. On the whole the season was a successful one, characterized by the type of football that has prevailed at the institution for the last four years; that of clean football, clean in the sense that it was strictly amateur. Hence the name for our team, "Crusaders." We started the season under a new regime, with Wingard as head coach, an alumnus and former coach at Susquehanna. Wingard was at one time an assistant to "Pop" Warner at Carlisle, whose teams achieved nation-wide prominence. Our coach was assisted in the development of the team by "Stew" Bannon, one-time brilliant half-back, who tutored the punters and forwards. The materials from which the coach had to build a formidable fighting machine to represent Susquehanna on an honorable basis, a basis of clean sports, consisted of a few veterans, but mostly of new material. Much credit must be given to our coaches and to the large number of capable Freshmen who came to the front and were developed into dependable players. The "Crusaders" were handicapped through much of the season by injuries to the players, many of the best players being out for long periods. This situation deferred the development of team work and undoubtedly prevented the team from showing its real worth in several important games.

The outstanding achievement of the "Crusaders" was the decisive defeat administered to Juniata. The game was played under adverse weather conditions and on a field that was slippery with mud. The victory of ten to nothing (10-0) was all the more notable because it came after the team had been defeated by Swarthmore.

WINGARD

Much credit must be given to Coach Wingard for the showing that his squad has made in the past season, for it was due to his untiring efforts that the "Little Crusaders" were able to come through the past season so successfully.

GORDON

Playing his second year for the "Little Crusaders," Captain Gordon led his men through the past season very successfully, always urging his men on with that "never say die" spirit. Gordon, considering his size and weight, played an exceptionally good brand of football.

MARTIN

When it comes to handling the detail work of the football department including the equipment, schedule, and needs of the eleven, "Abie" certainly proved himself an ideal manager.

STEUMPFLE

Men that can step in and run a team efficiently at any stage of the game are few, but in "Ernie" Susquehanna possessed a man that was always equal to any occasion. Although handicapped by injuries early in the year, he proved himself, as in the preceding years, to be a field general of the highest calibre. "Ernie" was chosen to lead the 1925 team.

THOMAS

Playing his last year for the "Crusaders" "Tommie" certainly did his bit—"gathering in" passes and "smearing" plays. His absence from next year's squad will be a great loss, but his playing days will linger long in the memories of those who saw him in action.

BLOUGH

Roger started the season as an end, but was later shifted to tackle, where he gave a very good account of himself. He played clean, hard-fought games with clock-like regularity. This was Roger's last year as a member of the "Little Crusaders."

HARTMAN

Hartman was Coach Wingard's stellar tackle. It would be hard to say which was his best game, for he always gave a good account of himself—tearing holes in the opponent's line so that his own team mates could plough through, or downing his opponents for losses.

BARNES

This was Harley's last year of football and as a guard he proved to be a stone wall to the driving attacks of his opponents. Harley was a star of the first magnitude.

DODD

Dodd won fame as a halfback of great ability. "Larry's" outstanding achievement of the season was performed in the Juniata game where his playing was of a superior order. "Larry" has one more year of college football to play.

BULLOCK

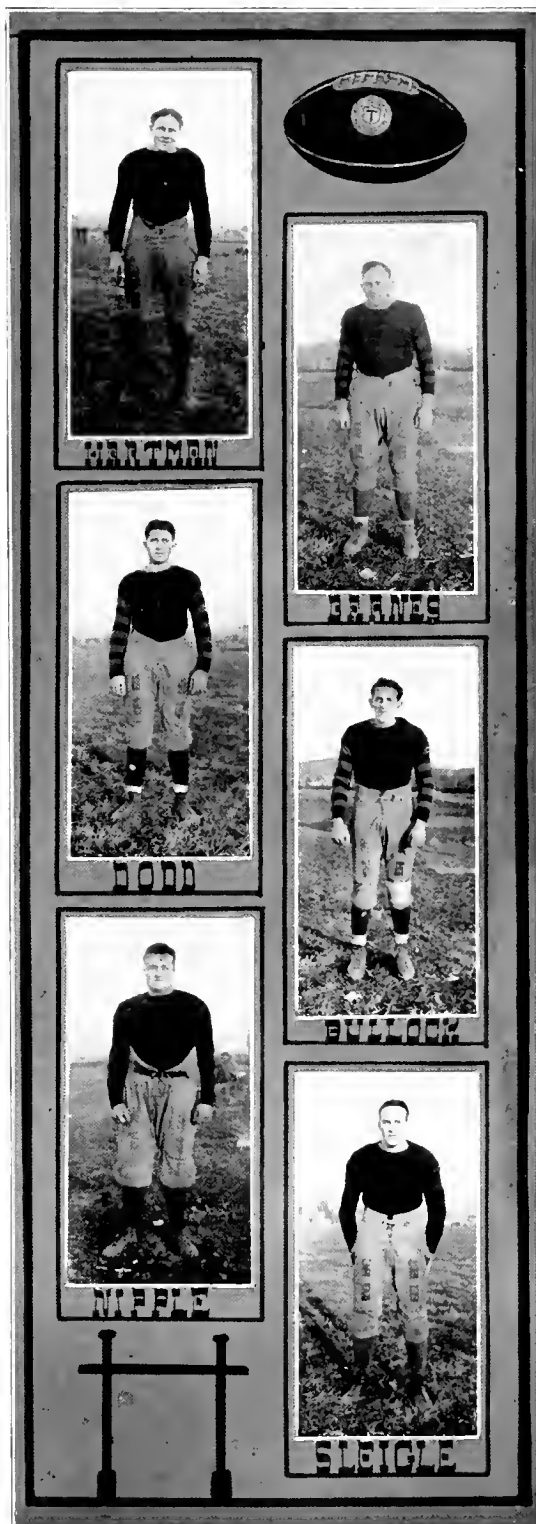

George, whenever called upon to fill the shoes of Captain Gordon at center, carried out this old saying, "on matter how good a man is at one position there is always some one that can step in and take his place efficiently."

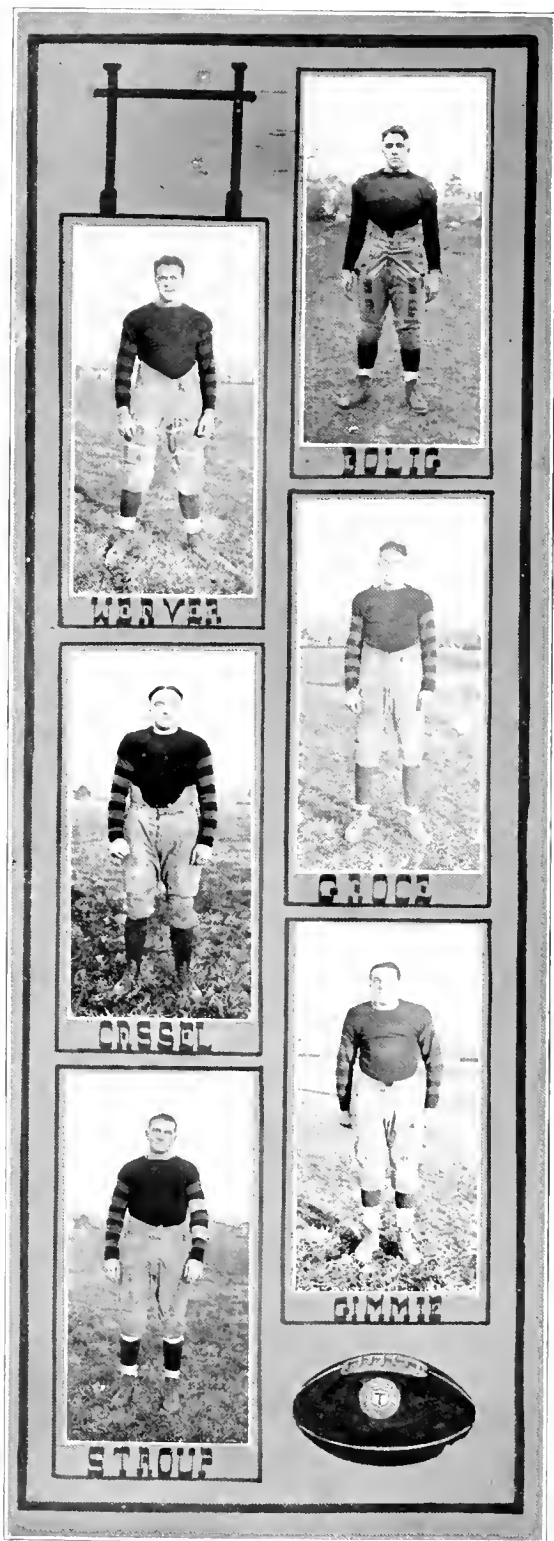

NIPPLE

Nipple, the veteran guard, played his third year for the Orange and Maroon. "Tinnie" plays a hard, consistent game and can be depended upon at all times. With his knowledge of the game he makes a very valuable asset to the "Crusaders."

SLEIGLE

Sleigle was one of the best contenders for the half-back position, but was handicapped in the early part of the season by injuries which kept him out of several games. Great things are expected of "Gene" next year.

BOLIG

Bolig, the veteran half, played his third season for the Orange and Maroon. "Pete" plays a hard, consistent game and his well educated toe has pulled the team out of many tight situations.

WEAVER

Weaver, playing his first year, has proven his weight in gold as a football player. His playing was brilliant and he is expected to be one of the mainstays next season.

GROCE

Groce, a Freshman who never played football until he entered S. U., developed into a hard plunging fullback. When a few yards were needed for a first down Groce was always equal to the occasion.

CASELL

"Ken" Cassell, our diminutive tackle, came to us from Harrisburg Tech. This was "Ken's" first year with the Orange and Maroon eleven. Judging him from the type of football he played, great things may be expected from him in the future.

GIMME

"Patsy" comes to us from the Empire State. "Patsy" handled the end position in fine style, where he proved a hard man for opponents to keep from "smearing" plays and "snatching" passes. This is his first year at S. U.

STROUP

Stroup shared honors with Bolig, Dodd, and Sleigle at the halfback position. Whenever called upon he showed the real fighting spirit, which goes a great way in making a star player. He has three more years in which to establish his ability.

AUTEN

"Johnnie" did not have much of a chance to establish his ability, but whenever called upon he showed form that will make him in another year an outstanding player.

PRATT

With the influx of good material came Willis Pratt, a very determined and unflinching Endicott man. He caught the spirit of athletics at S. U. and worked hard to earn his place. His rapidly developing ability gives promise of usefulness in the future.

WESTON

Westen, whenever called upon, proved himself to be equal to the position of quarterback. He had an uncanny instinct for chosing the right play at the right time.

HORTON

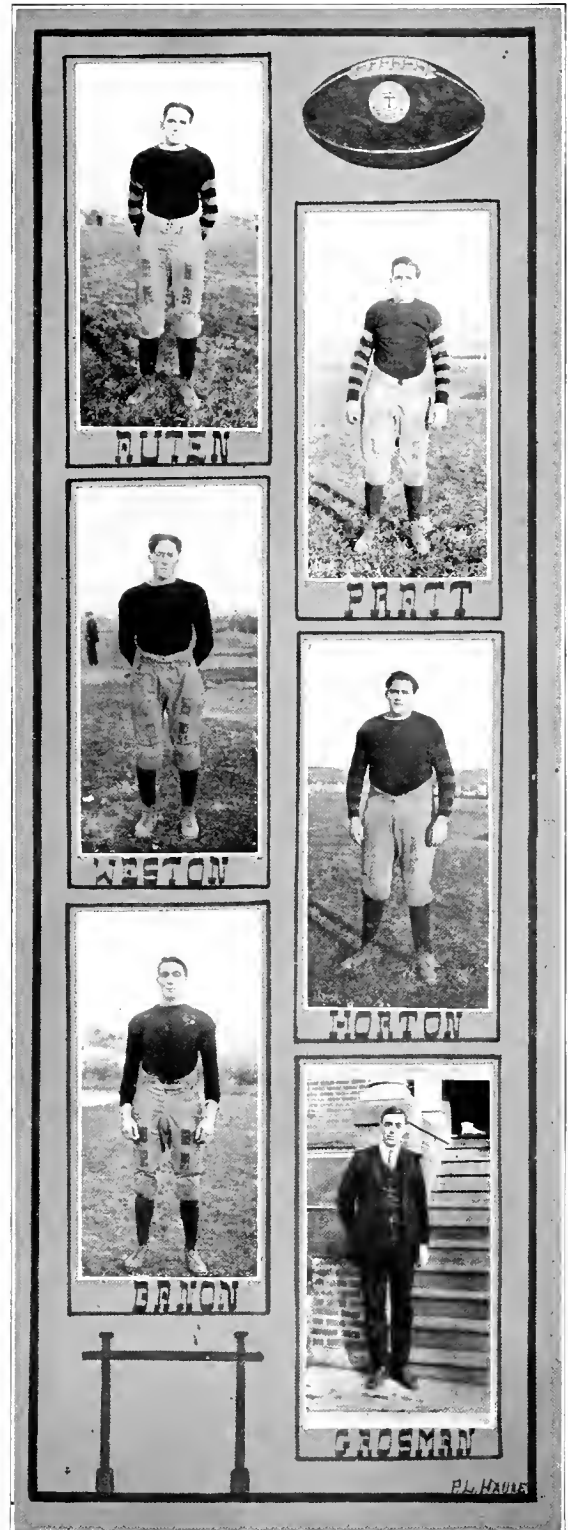

Horton, our "tiny" tackle, tips the scales at a mere two hundred and forty-five pounds. With his weight he will make a food foundation for next year's line, judging from the fine showing he made at every opportunity.

BANNON

"Stew" Bannon, as an assistant coach, was able to put into practice the best that he learned during four years of varsity football. Self-sacrifice meant little to "Stew" where development of the team was concerned.

GROSSMAN

Words fail us when we come to express our appreciation of our worthy Athletic Director, Prof. Grossman. Suffice it to say, that his high athletic ideals are rapidly being reached, and realized.

BASKETBALL

The Season of 1925

COACH FOLLMER

The basketball season of 1925 cannot be entirely considered a failure, although but two games were won. The coaches were forced to spend nearly the entire season experimenting and developing the many new men who reported for the squad. After a bad start the team finally found itself and decisively defeated the State Forest team. Following this game they again fell into a slump and did not recover until the last game of the season when they defeated the strong Lebanon Valley team. This was the closing game of the poorest basketball season that S. U. has experienced in many years and it is to be hoped that the next year will see Susquehanna represented by a team that will bring home more real victories and less close decisions.

It has been the custom in the past few years, at the close of each sport, for the students to look forward to the next season, hoping to see a better team representing Susquehanna.

We can do this without any compunctions this year inasmuch as we are assured of a greatly increased enrollment for next year with a fair average of good athletes. We are satisfied with the type of playing that was done this basketball season, but next year we shall have some real scores as proofs.

"To the Victor Belongs the Spoils."

Baseball Review of 1924

COACH BOWSER

Baseball opened with a "snap" as Susquehanna. Candidates were called out bright and early as an early game was scheduled with Juniata. As time progressed and the team was whipped into shape by Student Coach Bowser, many old faces appeared on the team, some to play their last season for Susquehanna.

Rogawicz, who was playing his last season, again filled the catching position. For pitchers we had "Cracker" Clark, a right-hander who made his sensational showing by holding the State Warriors to a win of 2 to 1 the previous season; and "Lefty" Hanner, who, coming for another tryout was proven by his stellar playing throughout the schedule.

Bowser occupied first base, and nothing can be said about him without commendation upon his work and ability at first. The key-stone sack was a problem many a man failed. After many sleepless nights Coach Bowser finally selected Miller, from Millersburg, for the position. Although not an especially good hitter, his fielding was very smooth.

"Pete" Bolig was assigned the short stop position which he took care of very well. Pete was very fast and covered well his own territory. He was also given lead-off position. The hot corner was again taken care of by Thomas, who had played it for three years. Thomas was the most consistent player on the team. His hitting and fielding was very commendable, as he snatched the hot liners along third base like a Traynor. As a hitter he ranked very high, batting fifth.

Bannon was the only varsity outfielder from the preceding season. With his arm of steel in action a runner met death at home plate whenever the chances were even. Bannon was a very good hitter, batting third in order. He, too, was playing his last games for the Orange and Maroon.

Left field was taken care of by Gelnett, who handled the position very well for his first year in college ball. Kurtz handled the right side of the garden exceptionally well.

On April 6 Coach Bowser and his tribe of ballplayers boarded the train heading toward Juniata, to scalp their first victims. The final returns from Juniata were S. U. 7, Juniata 4. Bannon, Bowser, and Thomas each having a home run, which had much to do with the massacre.

S. U. left Juniata with the scalps tucked under their belts ready to hunt Lions in the wilds of State College, but were not successful, getting only 2 runs while State had 8. S. U. then returned home for a rest until next week when they would journey to Reading. Again Susquehanna went on the warpath and scalped Schuylkill College by a score of 12 to 8. Thomas and Bannon again led the tribe with three hits.

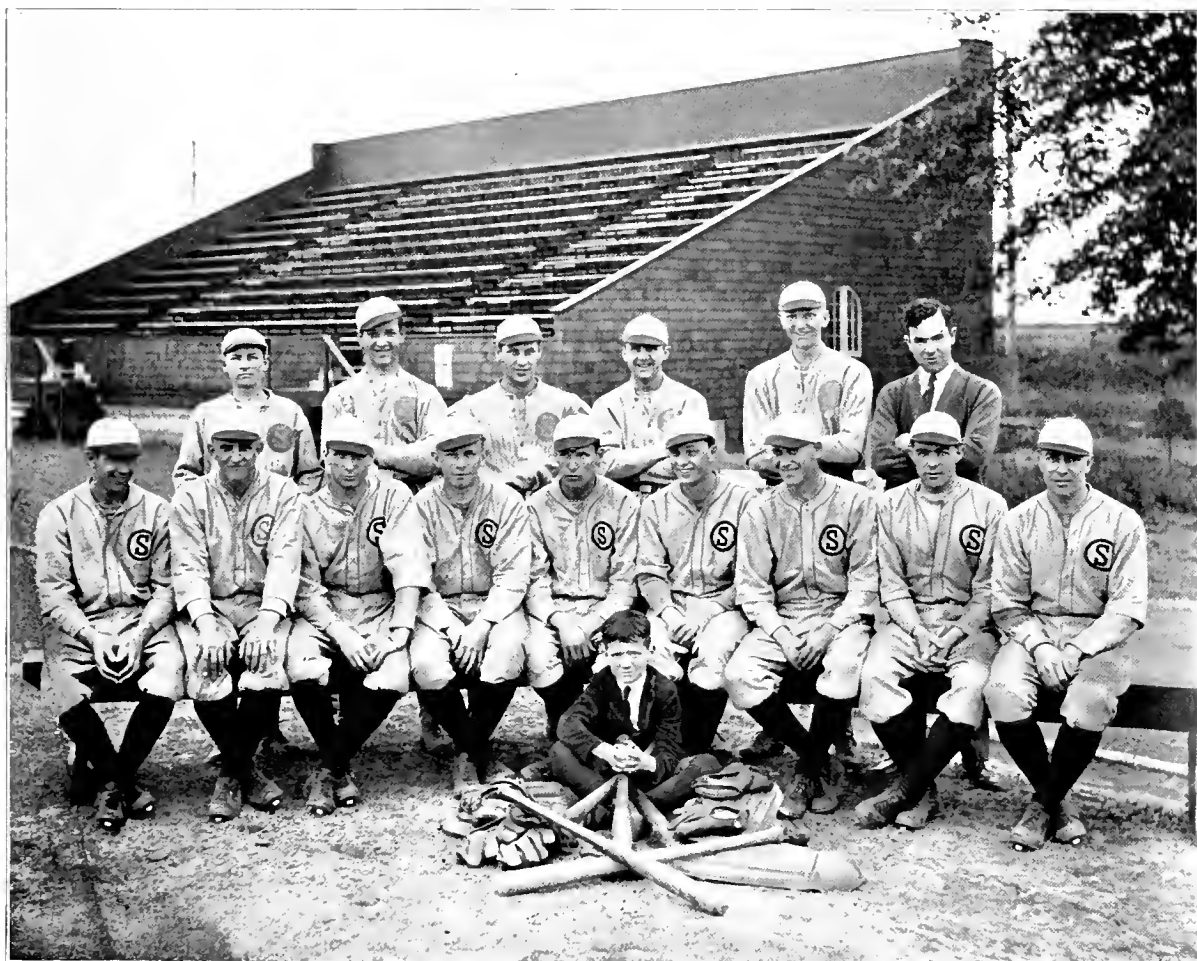

Pennsylvania Military College were finally called to stop the carousing Susquehanna boys, which they did by a score of 6 to 2. Returning home after two terrible battles, S. U. was in danger of invasion, but under good coaching and hard practice, Albright, the invaders, were defeated 7 to 3.

Juniata, finally recuperating after the massacre given them by Susquehanna at Juniata, managed to defeat S. U. 3 to 2. After this second

A great sorrow came over S. U. when Rogawicz and Bannon were forbidden to play on account of professionalism charges. Bowser, with a patched up team journeyed to Bucknell and was defeated by a score of 5 to 0. Lefty Hanner held the Bucknell crew to four hits while S. U. collected seven.

Bowser, satisfied with the showing of his team, journeyed to Albright but despite a hard struggle his warriors were defeated by 5 to 4. After leaving Albright S. U. journeyed to Lebanon Valley to be repulsed and almost annihilated by a score of 11 to 2. Returning home rather discouraged, Bowser whipped his team in shape for the last battle of the year with Bucknell. The fates unfortunately gave Bucknell all the aces, S. U. being defeated 7 to 0.

Winning 4; losing 7.

TRACK

Track 1924

COACH GROSSMAN

Candidates for Track were called out early by Coach Prof. Grossman. After much practice and hard labor, twenty best candidates were selected. The Track Meets, which were held during the season, proved to be the best meets ever staged by the Susquehanna team.

Track was given very little thought by the students, but by the ardor and persistency of Prof. Grossman the interest of the students increased in this sport. His work and prayers were also answered by a very finely equipped and talented track team, of which Susquehanna was very proud.

The first meet was the Penn Relays, in which our boys took second place in their class. This was a splendid showing for the first event. The second Track meet took place with the Juniata squad. Although we were defeated by the last event our boys fought as hard as the Crusaders of Old.

Harrisburg was the next city to be invaded by our Crusaders, who were competing against three other colleges: Ursinus, Juniata, and Drexel. The Crusaders were victorious. There was great rejoicing when the final returns came that our team had won first honors.

The last meet of the year and most hard-fought battle the Crusaders ever had was the elimination meet with Drexel. Drexel invaded Susquehanna territory for the first time, ready to carry away the honors, but Prof. Grossman had worked his team to perfection and the Crusaders were in condition for a real battle. A battle it was from beginning to end, first one phalanx would be weakened only to be re-enforced by a later event. At last, under the guidance of (Gen.) Prof. Grossman, the Drexel team was defeated by the sturdy Crusaders of Susquehanna, and thus ended a nearly perfect season.

HUMOR

A brief summary of life:

Hatched

Matched

Dispatched.

I say, Spig, would you kindly lend me your green necktie this evening?

Why certainly, Claude, but why the formality?

I can't find it.

When everything's made of concrete
In a world where there's nary a stick,
The child that has been indiscreet
Will have to be spanked with a brick.

My purse is always well filled, stated the chronic bachelor, because it never feels the touch of woman's hand.

A Woman's Way

If at first you don't succeed,
CRY, cry again.

"You are the Belle of my heart,"

Said Lovelorn Larry Lute:—

"Why dont you give the Belle a ring?"

Said Little Dollie Cute.

The midnight stillness of the darkened parlor was punctured by a crack just overhead.

"Wha-wha-what was that, dud-dud-darling?" exclaimed the timid youth.

"Merely father dropping a hint," she replied, and snuggled closer.

"If I should kiss you how would you take it?"

"Why—er—how do you generally give them?"

Prof. Jack—Fools ask questions that wise men cannot answer.

Watkins—I wondered why I flunked that exam last week.

O chemist of skill, investigate—
Answer this query of mine,
I think I know what Carbonate,
But where did Iodine?

Earl—Have you ever read "To a Field Mouse?"

No, Arlene, how do you get them to listen?

Prof. Jack—"And what was Nelson's farewell address?"

Bright One—"Heaven, Sir."

Young Bride—I wish I'd married a man who could paint the beauty of nature.

Tactful Husband—My dearest, you'd soon get tired of posing.

Dr. Surface—"What is the highest form of animal life?"

Freshman—"The giraffe."

What man lives the longest?

I dunno, who is it?

The shoemaker.

Howsat?

He sticks to the last.

Absent-minded professor meeting his son: — "Hello, Samuel, how's your father?"

Lawyer—"But my dear madam, there is no insurance for you to draw. Your husband never insured his life; he only had a policy against fire."

Widow—"Precisely. That is the very reason I had him cremated!"

"Why don't you marry her?"

"I'd like to, but, unfortunately, she has an impediment in her speech."

"What is it?"

"She can't say Yes."

It always pays to tell a maid
Her's is the first kiss you've assayed.
But in the kiss I'm not so sure
It pays to be the amateur.

Preceptress—"I wish you would not pause on the steps so long when your friend brings you to the dorm."

"Why I only stood there for a second last night."

Preceptress—"Is that all? I really thought I heard a third and fourth."

They sat side by side in Battery Park, overlooking New York Bay and watching the moonbeams on the water. "I wonder," he said, looking at the distant outline of the goddess and her torch, "why they have the light so small?"

"Perhaps," she answered coyly, moving a trifle nearer, "the smaller the light the greater the liberty."

Mistress—"Now, Ada, I want you to show what you can do tonight. We have a few very special friends coming for a musical evening."

Cook—"Well, mum, I 'aven't done any singin' to speak of for years, but as you insists upon it you can put me down for 'The 'oly City.'"

Prof. Jack—Mr. Rode, what is the meaning of Clandestine?

Louise—Why, it is a kind of an electric light bulb, I believe.

The He-man—The referee penalized three of our men for holding.

The Co-ed—Oh, how Puritanical of him! He must be old-fashioned.

'25—How many men are in the Freshmen class?

'26—About 18.

'25—Is that all?

'26—Yes, but the rest will grow up eventually.

1st Student—Our Prof. is sick in bed today.

2nd Student—What is the complaint?

1st Student—No complaint, everybody satisfied.

'27—I practised for initiations all summer.

'26—How?

'27—Paddled a girl in a canoe every night.

I only hope I can tear away from you, cried our hero as he gracefully sat on the fly paper.

Philosopher—A kiss is the language of love.

Co-ed—Well, why don't you say something?

He—I can tell a real lady by the way she dresses, can't you?

Him—Dunno, I never watched one.

Most of our girls can dance half way—they can hold on but can't move their feet.

Marry in haste and repeat at leisure. He who hesitates is bossed.

Gosh, your dumb; why don't you get an encyclopedia?

The pedals hurt my feet.

Prof.—This is the third time you looked on her paper.

Stude—Yes, sir; but she doesn't write very plainly.

Mr. Hick—Will my boy learn to drink at your school?

Prof.—Sorry, sir; but we can hardly find enough for the faculty.

Good Heavens! It says here in the Susquehanna that Kroen is seriously ill in the hospital.

Why, haven't you heard? He was attacked by a moth while brushing his dress suit.

Girls are prettier than men.

Naturally?

No, artificially.

We all believe in Platonic Friendship—when the Chaperone is around.

Ambitious Louis Rode said to Dr. Parkes Cadman, "How did you become such a wonderful orator?"

Doc. Cadman—"I began by addressing envelopes."

"I have heard," said Dr. Sadtler, "that Babylon fell, Ninevah was destroyed and

Someone in class—"Tyre was punctured."

What do you think of "The Plastic Age?" I think its exactly like college life. No wonder enrollments are increasing.

Frosh in Math. Exam.—How far are you from the correct answer?

Second Frosh—Two seats.

They say that Sutton has a long line of ancestors.

Remarkably long, yes, and extremely thick.

Aren't the fashions this year less extreme?

Oh, extremely less.

George—Do you believe in eugenics?

Helen—I don't know. But if I could once get married I wouldn't care what happened to me then.

Perceptress—Dot, isn't that dress a trifle extreme?

Dot—Extreme! Why I put this on in order that you may become accustomed to the one I am having made.

The only things vainer than women are regrets.

Carlson reminds me of Atlantic City.

Why?

Because of his "bored" walk.

A Touching Appeal—S. O. S., §, R. S. V. P., P. D. Q.

What makes you so infernally thin?

Worry, old chap, worry.

What on earth are you worrying about?

Getting thin.

Watkins has sort of a dry humor.

Yes, every time he cracks wise he expects a drink.

Brevity is the sole of wit, which accounts for the step from the sublime to the ridiculous.

University of Virginia

Ruth—I think it was perfectly horrid of the legislature not to pass the co-education bill.

Jim—I think they were right. The boys have to do a little work, you know.

Wow!

He—What would you do if a man kissed you?

She—I'd yell.

He—Would you yell if I kissed you?

She—Naw, I'm still hoarse from last night.

Dr. Surface—What kind of rock composes the hill upon which the cemetery is situated?

Frosh—Tombstones! (The whole class smiles).

Dr. Surface—This is no laughing matter; in fact, it is exceedingly grave.

Dr. Woodruff—What would this nation be without women?

Streamer—A stag-nation.

Peg—Why don't you get up for breakfast, Katie?

Katie—Why should I? I had Grubb all night.

The reason the milk tastes queer in the springtime is the fact that the cows are left over in the pasture for the first time and thus the milk is pasturized. An explanation by one of our biology sharks.

Peg Spigelmier was overheard to remark in the dining hall: I wonder how many dandelion flowers you would have to eat in order to become inebriated? We are desirous of knowing what she is up to.

After the scrub football game at Danville the team journeyed to a restaurant for snstenance. While waiting for the order Williams walked over to the automatic piano which had a pay station telephone setting on top of it and intending to put the nickel in the piano he dropped it in the telephone and wondered why they had a piano in the place if it wouldn't play.

The average woman has a vocabulary of only eight hundred words. It is a small stock, but think of the turnover.

Stroup lost his reputation as a ten-second man when Horton passed him down at Swarthmore in an attempt to hide from the Dean of Women. Why?

Calendar

A NUMBER of centuries ago the Romans did not have a register whereon the division of time was marked, but for want of such a register it was the custom of the pontifex maximus, on the first day of the month, which began with the new moon, to proclaim the month, with the festivals occurring in it. As civilization advanced in music, art, science, and literature it soon became apparent that not every one could come in close enough contact with the pontifex maximus, there being no telephones in that age, so that it was necessary to have a register which could be distributed among the people.

Various plans were proposed from time to time,—dates became confused and people forgot to keep engagements, (a not uncommon experience among the people of today) until Julius Caesar, foreseeing the day when his Latin commentaries would be dispersed by the attack of modern cavalry, and not being content to let his fame thirty centuries hence, rest upon these four pillars, decided to write his name in Time by measuring time. Hence, it behooves us, the class of Nineteen-Hundred-Twenty-Six, to establish a more modern calendar in which the life of the students at Susquehanna University is truly depicted.

We shall begin our record in the second half of the college year, and if there be any unwise or inaccurate statements about any one individual we hope he will remember the old proverb, "To err is human," and if it so offends him let him take his pen-knife and pluck it out.

FEBRUARY 1—With the return of the second semester we find a visitor—Dr. Crouzer from California—gave us a very humorous and helpful talk. He knew after our mid-year examinations we needed "to forget that which is behind and press on toward the goal," or some of us might faint by the wayside ere our journey of the semester is run.

In the evening our varsity defeated Schuylkill with a score of 29-22—a very exciting game from beginning to end.

FEBRUARY 2—Several new students come to take work with us. We hope they shall like Susquehanna's children well enough to want to stay with us. As usual, when Saturday evening comes, couples of girls and fellows go to the "movies."

FEBRUARY 3—Dr. Couzer preached in the college church. The very sad announcement of ex-President Wilson's death was made. We cannot now appreciate what he has done for his country, but like Washington and Lincoln, his name shall live through the ages.

FEBRUARY 4—In an interclass game of basketball the Sophomore girls defeated the Freshmen with a score of 12-7. Thus far the fates have been kind to the Sophs. We hope they will keep the good work going.

FEBRUARY 5—Theological students defeated the Academy 24-13. But why should they not, if the brain is developed by Theology, why should the brawn not be developed by basketball? Ask Ramer.

FEBRUARY 6—Dr. Bauslin said he had a few words to say to us in chapel, and fearing that he should get to chapel on time, "Doc" Senn climbed out of Dr. Houtz's classroom window. How many of the students would make such an effort to get to chapel?

Theologs defeat Juniors 29-16.

FEBRUARY 8—Social hour in the music hall but some are not so sociable.

FEBRUARY 9—A number of students have gone home and those who remained went to the "movies." I wonder how Noah and his family amused themselves? Do you suppose they had movies in the ark?

FEBRUARY 10—Again the Sophomore girls win a victory in basketball against the Juniors with a large score of 23-8. Every one goes to church, couples go to First Lutheran.

FEBRUARY 11—"Prexy" announces a new hymn in chapel, coeds sing and the fellows come in strong on the "Amen."

FEBRUARY 12—Lincoln's Birthday. Lecture by "Sunshine" Dietrick. He surely can spread sunshine, even those whom we thought might have been reared in an indigo factory had to laugh. Choral club sang several numbers which every one enjoyed.

FEBRUARY 13—Sophomore girls defeated the Freshmen again 10-7. They won by taking Sunshine Dietrich's advise of "Smiling Thru."

FEBRUARY 15—Sophomore girls defeated Millersburg girls 12-6, but the Junior varsity boys retaliated by defeating the same high school boys 36-25.

FEBRUARY 16—Several couples go to the Rolling Green to skate and thence to movies in the evening.

FEBRUARY 17—A very quiet Sunday. Some even forgot to go to church.

FEBRUARY 18—Third floor of Has-singer Hall give a concert. Henry Um-berger plays the "mouth"-organ—much harmony.

FEBRUARY 19—Every one went to see "If Winter Comes." We are waiting for the senario writer to produce "If Summer Comes."

FEBRUARY 20—Selinsgrove High School defeated the freshmen girls 24-12. Fate's against the poor "freshies" again.

FEBRUARY 21—"Prexy" requests that delinquent students pay their bills.

FEBRUARY 22—Teachers give us half holiday to celebrate Washington's Birthday. Wonder why they don't give us a half holiday when we have a birthday? Social hour in the evening. We lose to Albright 42-21 in basketball.

FEBRUARY 23—Mr. Horton takes about all the girls for a sled ride and all return without falling out. "Peg" Schmiermund has a date in the parlor. We lost to Gettysburg with a score of 42-22. "Tommy" visits Johns Hopkins, but not as a patient.

FEBRUARY 24—Sunday ushered in with a very cold reception of ten degrees below zero—too cold to venture out.

FEBRUARY 25—Miss Woodruff appears in chapel with shorn locks. We are having meatless dinners twice a week to help the foreign students. Some of the faculty attend Dr. Spangler's funeral. The five and six o'clock classes were excused in memory of Dr. Spangler.

FEBRUARY 26—A very good "Sus-quehanna" for this week. Co-eds did the work. Some living books at S. U. have received personal comment—to the satisfaction of some and ds gust of others. "Vocal Athletes" return from trip but will they ever be the same?

FEBRUARY 27—Seniors win against the juniors 27-17. Sammy and Ethel attend the game but were not so interested in the basketball game.

FEBRUARY 28—Mr. Horton's birth-day. He makes a speech of thanks for gift, but does not give us any ice cream. We are giving the money to foreign students. Academy beats Selinsgrove High 29-20.

FEBRUARY 29—The extra day of the leap year was well spent. Co-Sorority held their formal dance. It was the first time some of the fellows were seen in full dress and Tuxedos. Some strange faces were seen on the campus.

MARCH 1—Some of the co-eds still wear a smile. Reason—vistors spending the week-end on the campus. The game with Lebanon Valley was 29-23 for Sus-quehanna, but five men were taken out of the game on personal fouls.

MARCH 2—Weather much warmer. Couples go to the First Lutheran Church in the evening. Louie and "Peg" have a parlor date, and—?

MARCH 3—"Prexy" tells the day students to get permission at the office to visit the dormitory rooms—"familiarity breeds contempt" might be a good slogan here. Ramer interests the new students by his "movies" and lecture. Dr. Snr-face out boating for the "spring-peep-ers" and hearing a chirp sits down in the boat rather suddenly. Last of the inter-class games and the Sophs had to lose to the Juniors 19-18.

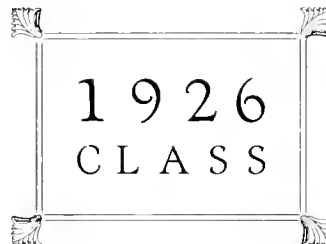

MARCH 4—Shrove Tuesday! No one even thought of locking the teachers out of class because we forgot the significance of the day till we got doughnuts for supper; so the cooks were on the alert anyway.

MARCH 5—First day of Lent. Students make resolutions not to smoke cigarettes or eat candy. How many keep their resolutions? First call for track men. "Pinky" Daubenspeck and Bonny, attired in blue overalls, apply at the railroad offices???

MARCH 6—Dr. Aikens announces Glee Club "Rehearsal." We are waiting to hear the program after rehearsal.

MARCH 7—Many variations in the weather—warm, cold, calm, stormy, fair, and snow. Philo Literary Society and Social hour. Choral Club goes to Hughesville and Alma and Edith interested in game, latest reports. Edith treed a Baer.

MARCH 8—Couples go to the movies and the girls who remained here from Choral Club trip had an indoor track meet and some of the boys steal some of the refreshments. All had sufficient, anyway.

MARCH 9—Ladies' Auxiliary presents Seibert Hall with beautiful new furniture. Dr. Focht's condition announced as serious.

MARCH 10—Announcement of Dr. Focht's death in chapel. Every one is heartbroken. Dr. Aikens delivers a very fitting prayer.

MARCH 11—Dr. Surface takes the bird study class out on a hike before breakfast. They see a hare. Harold Moldenke celebrates his birthday with a party. Guess they had "welsh rabbit."

MARCH 12—Call for the freshmen or the athletic field. More brawn is developed.

MARCH 13—Classes excused for the day. All assemble in chapel at 10 a. m. for memorial service for Dr. Focht. A number of visitors here. Funeral services at 2.00 p. m. at the house.

MARCH 14—Dr. Young gives the college some maple syrup. Everyone up for hot-cakes at breakfast. Annual St. Patrick's party at Epsilon Sigma House. Mrs. Kimble, chaperones, "Good night, boys."

MARCH 15—Glee Club at Beaver Springs. Ask Landis if the town is interesting. All out to see "Penrod and Sam." Several new couples stepping out. Seniors "chap" while faculty is entertained at Prof. Creagers.

MARCH 16—Prof. Creager preaches in the college church. Suppose he got some inspiration from the night before. Great indignation; couples can't go to evening service—no "chaps."—Mrs. Kimble ill.

MARCH 17—A few of the Irish blossom out in green, most of us feel that ribbons would not make us any greener. Some of the co-eds go to Sunbury to the "Hunch Back of Notre Dame."

MARCH 18—Bond and Key annual St. Patrick's party. Every one had a good time.

MARCH 19—A mass meeting to develop "pep" for baseball and track; much enthusiasm showed and a number of good speakers gave short talks.

MARCH 20—Big indoor track meet. All previous records were shattered. Freshmen come out first, Sophs second, Juniors third, Academy fourth, Seniors failed in all points.

MARCH 21—First day of spring. Dr. Surface takes the Bird Study Club on an early hike and they get caught in a snow storm. Oh, Spring Time! where are thy gentle zephyrs?

MARCH 22—"Ted" and Rebecca have a date in the parlor, with eats and everything. Sara and Harland are the guests of honor.

MARCH 23—That spring is here is evidenced by the number taking campus and the chirping of spring birds. Day is fittingly observed by couples going to church.

MARCH 24—The last number of the lyceum course given tonight. Hon G. M. Wallis gave a lecture on immigration. Aren't we glad we do not live on Ellis Island?

MARCH 25—Glee Club away on trip. The junior oratorical contest was held in the Music Hall. The orations were good and we are waiting for the contestants to make their mark in the world as ministers and statesmen. Cronus would doubtless flee from the assemblies (church or otherwise) in wrath because the people could not sleep. Harrisburg Tech. and Williamsport had a basketball game in the gymnasium.

MARCH 26—After all the events of the previous night we sing a new hymn in chapel; that is, some of us try and the boys give a howling "Amen."

MARCH 27—Some of the Hassinger Hall inmates entertain the occupants of Seibert Hall by vocal gymnastics—songs, speeches, and otherwise, mostly otherwise???

MARCH 28—Freshmen given some chance to develop brawn in rolling the baseball diamond. First practice of the season in the afternoon. Louis Rode knocks a home run. Every one happy. Glee Club has returned.

MARCH 29—Kellar tries to train up the boys in the way they should go: locks the dining room door—to make them go in through Seibert Hall. Girls hold a reception for the Ladies' Auxiliary. Ladies seemed to appreciate the efforts put forth for their honor.

MARCH 30—March keeps its "windy reputation" and goes out like a lion. Kellar again tries to train the boys. Couples attend Methodist Church.

MARCH 31—Work started on the tennis court. Now watch for the "love games." Work also on the baseball ground; now watch for the "knocks."

APRIL 1—Bingamen gets an April Fool call. James' parrot enlightens him. . . . Girls' Choral Club sings at Northumberland. Audience very appreciative of the concert.

APRIL 2—Dr. Pike begins his lectures on Abnormal Psychology. Now we understand what is the matter with some of our students who begin calling trains in the small hours of the night???

APRIL 3—Choral Club widowers looking rather blue; their better halves have gone on a two-day tour.

APRIL 4—Spring again in evidence and nearly all the snow disappears. The last snow ball battle was staged between Old and New Dorm. Kroen was the only casualty; shot while representing the Drummer Boy in the "Spirit of '76."

APRIL 5—Choral Club returns and some of the boys hike to Sunbury to meet them. Edith gets an epistle from Dallas. Ladies' Auxiliary meets at Seibert Hall.

APRIL 6—If "April Showers bring May flowers" we should have lots of roses from the rain of this day. Dreary? Rather! Chaperones on the job—no going to Sunbury.

APRIL 7—"Prexy" makes his annual spring lecture on rules governing the conduct of the couples on the campus. Some guilty looks cast about. Clio holds a meeting.

APRIL 8—First home game of the season which results in a practice game. Despite Prexy's advice the Botany class pairs off on hikes. What a "deplorable condition."

APRIL 9—Dr. Surface's Nature Study Class goes on an early morning hike. Among the birds seen the noisiest were the "Pal Parrots."

APRIL 10—Orchestra gave its annual concert and was enjoyed by all. Sophs won the race in the inter-class relays.

APRIL 11—School closes at 4.00 p. m. for Easter vacation, but most of the students forget and leave before that time. The home ties are stronger than school ties—for some.

APRIL 22—Back again. And glad to see old friends once more. At chapel we learn that Mr. Horton is trying to develop grass at the lower end of the campus. Dr. Aikens tells some of the couples to regulate their movements and not meet so often.

APRIL 23—Speaker from Wittenburg gave a good talk in chapel. Six members of the Freshmen class are favored by entertaining the upper classmen. Falsold and Boden are not so anxious to go home. Why?

APRIL 24—Susquehanna staff election. Dr. Surface supervises the Arbor-etum planting down by the grand stand.

APRIL 25—Four organizations representing S. U. on the road. We beat Schuylkill 12-7.

APRIL 26—Home coming day for the wanderers. Juniata teaches our men to play tennis. No love games for them, but S. U. team seemed rather romantic judging from the scores. Guess Seibert Hall was too near the courts.

APRIL 27—Couples seen out enjoying the sunshine. All the world loves a lover, but try and make the faculty!

APRIL 28—Another warm day. Prof. Grossman tries some of the track men—some stiff, walking railroad ties. The fair maids trip the "light fantastic toe" for May Day practice.

APRIL 29—Choral Club gives good concert at home. Even the chaperones took some of the girls to the new hotel for eats afterwards.

April 30—Rain all day. Not only did we lose the sunshine, but Prexy announces that some one lost her pocket-book. Maybe the rain washed it down the sewer.

MAY 6—Ertel about to graduate in school of campustry, usual campus scenes. Prexy warns the "lovers" about too much "pairing off." Though we are living in a new era, Prexy still is a strong advocate of the "rule of three," not the three "r's" however, but rather Look! Watch! Listen!

MAY 7—Chapel seats receive a surprise. Theologs leave school for vacation. They believe in fresh air classes. Bill Brubaker takes a ride in the Studebaker; reports favorable time enjoyed by all (both (?) of them).

MAY 8—Ridenour performs in front of Chapel Hall. Ministers need plenty of voice training, if it s only train calling. Lutz plays a game of tennis for exercise; he claims he needs it.

MAY 22—Lecture in chapel. Prof. Fisher's open-air class-room wins favor among the students. Hanner and Felton give their approval (not to the lesson, however).

MAY 23—Baseball game. Ursinus vs. S. U. at Selinsgrove. Tennis match between Schuylkill and S. U. at Selinsgrove. Streamer and Pitman star in the doubles.

MAY 24—Large event. Track meet between Drexel and Susquehanna at Selinsgrove. Runners show their speed and win much favoritism among the ceds. Koch especially is among these honored.

MAY 25—Sunday school and church. Rain, "Prexy" takes dinner with the students in Seibert Hall.

MAY 26—Senior exams begin. Some pass and some do not. Their cry is "Oh, days that I've wasted in languish return unto me!" Stong studies all night. Others cram too.

MAY 27—More exams and still more. "Prexy" lectures again on the "pairing off" question. "Tommy" asks hanks the favorite fruit of Susquehanna's campus. Answer. "Pairs."

MAY 28—Senn finds time to make his daily call to Pine street, reports that the river is rough. Still more exams. "Carpy" repeats the old verse again.

MAY 29—Students find much joy (?) in Prof. "Jacks" English exam. Many glances go to the ceiling but no handwriting can be found thereon. Ponies throw some in Dr. Houtz's Trig. class. "Spieg" and Gramley take campustry between exams.

MAY 30—Rain, every one gets up early. "The early bird catches the worm" is still a good slogan. Memorial Day, many students journey to Sunbury, some do not return at once. Clark visits in Cake-town and Rail-road Ave. Wonder who she is? Tennis team goes to Philadelphia to compete in State finals.

MAY 31—Bucknell defeats S. U. in baseball 5-0. S. U. tennis team also lost to Bucknell.

JUNE 4—Exams continue. Sanderson proves to be an automobile mechanic, adjusting brakes a specialty. More rain.
